In about 1685 one Hugh McFadden migrated from County Porta Ferry, Ireland, down to the district of Cootehill in County Caran. We have no definite record of him and his children. He must have been a successful farmer, but not so much can be said of his son who sold the homestead to one Murphy or O'Connell. Our record is clear from then on as one of his grandsons, James McFadden, married Mary Wallace, who bore him an only son, Hugh in 1796. This son married Essie Adams. They had fourteen sons, the first being born about 1826. The second son, John McFadden, our grandfather, was born in 1833. The third of their living children was Henry, father of cousin Harry McFadden, deceased. The other living boys were Hugh and Robert.

In order to relieve conditions at home and to try fortunes in a new land, John came to the United States and Hugh and Robert to Austraila-Cana Springs, Meris Creek, New South Wales.

John McFadden, our grandfather, found his way westward finally to Ohio, where he found plenty of timber to be cut into cross ties. There he met and married grandmother, who had been the widow of Samuel Stevenson only a few years. Their marriage must not have been a happy one as they separated after a few years.

In the mean while, Grandmother McFadden had come to Indiana following her McFadden children who were connected in one way or another with the lumbering business, carried on by the Giddings Company in Lafayette Township, Indiana.

Grandfather, who had always been in the work of clearing land and cutting cross ties came to Indiana a few years after grandmother had settled here. He lived with his sons, Henry and Hugh, until he took his own life in 1896.

Robert McFadden was born at Killavaghan, Coot Hill, County Caran, Ireland. He came to Austraila in about 1875. He did various types of work at first, finally settling on the land at Werris Creek, New South Wales. Here he raised sheep and cattle and did farming. After a number of years he sold the property and bought another at Emerald Hill, New South Wales, consisting of more than 3,000 acres of land. Here he lived from 1906 until 1921 when he passed away.

Hugh McFadden did not marry. He was a cripple which might have been life long, however he migrated to Australia and lived for a time at Emerald Hill, with his brother. Hugh died in 1918.

One of my earliest memories and delights was a visit to our home by Grand-Mother McFadden, a kindly, blunt, white-haired woman. At night she had an admiring audience of wide eyed, interested children as she prepared for bed. She would braid her long white hair in two braids, don a white nightcap and a long white nightgown, then kneel to say her prayers in German, whether or not it was her habit to pray in German or whether she did it only to please the children we do not know. She was reared in the Catholic Church and promised her mother that she would not affiliate with any other church. She did, however, attend Monson Chapel, a small Methodist Church near Roanoke, Indiana, quite regularly during the time of her life that she lived in Lafayette Township. I remember hearing my father say that she always gave the preacher a dollar when he came to see her.

Grandmother, who was born in Germany, came to the United States when she was twelve years old. She and her parents must have first come to Maumee, Ohio because while she was quite a young girl she worked at a place that boarded the men who were helping dig the Wabash-Erie Canal through there. Unfortunately we do not know much of her life from then until she married Samuel Stevenson when she was somewhere near the age of twenty-one. Six children were born to this union. Samuel died of Milk Sickness. There is no record available as to when she and Grandfather McFadden were married. Some twenty-three or more years later she came to Indiana with her son Hugh and lived at Williams Station in Adams County. After his marriage she lived with her daughter Alvena in one of the several houses on the Giddings farm, on which was located a sawmill which became one of the outstanding industries in Lafayette Township. Grandmother then bought the Harris place near Roanoke, Indiana, where she lived until her death in 1904.
